

- Dhaka university :

Visit the Dhaka University area including Curzon hall, TSC, Central Shahid Minar, and round within the Dhaka University perimeter. Among them Curzon Hall is the most beautiful one because of the great mixture of European and Mughal styles as the British Crown, Curzon Hall has one of the best structural designs in Dhaka. It has got the Mughal symbolic forms which have arches and domes. It has got an interesting historical background in that till 1911 the building was used by Dhaka College. But after Dhaka University was established in 1921, the hall was taken by the University and still is being used for education purposes by the university. Now it is one of the tourist places in the country and it fascinates people at home and abroad.

- Visiting Sadarghat (River Station):

Continue driving to Sadarghat River Station. This is the main river port in Dhaka and one of the largest river stations in South Asia. Sadarghat is used by hundreds of small boats and gigantic overnight passenger ferries mainly for communication with the southern districts of the country. Also, Cargo barges use Sadarghat as a loading and unloading point. This bustling place has become a large daily market for fruits, vegetables, and miscellaneous items carried to and from different parts of Bangladesh. Numerous retail and wholesale shops can be found on both sides of the road which makes this place must must-visit place for visitors.

- Fascinating Boat Ride at Sadarghat. :

Enjoy a boat ride on a rowboat at Dhaka's busy Buriganga river. This river is an alive and vibrant place full of activities. You'll see hundreds of rowboats crossing people in two sides of the river, small vendors selling goods on their boats, and passenger and cargo ferries passing by.
